

INFORMATION SHOPPING CART FOR A WEBSITE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information shopping cart that can be used to store selected information from a website and later use the information at a portable device, such as a personal digital assistant (PDA). The website may be a directory website accessed at a personal computer. The user may select various directory listings, as well as ancillary information (driving directions, maps, advertisements, menus, coupons, etc.) for the information shopping cart. The entire shopping cart is then downloaded to the PDA. The user then takes the PDA where the user needs the information most, whether on the road, walking, or any location away from the personal computer.
